

Gr8fully Unplugged Cell phone sleeping bag "pattern"

*Use this pattern to create a bag;
So that putting your phone "to sleep" isn't such a drag.
The bag is intended for you to give your phone a nap;
So that all your energy it does not zap!*

Supplies:

10x10 square of double-sided quilted fabric (JoAnn Fabrics has large selection)
Small iron to iron down the sides as you're sewing (at JoAnn for $16).

Instructions:

1) Fold up two sides and the bottom and sew (on the two opposite sides, fold in twice so that you don't see the batting on the sides of the fabric). Make sure that you are folding in the side of the fabric you want on the inside (with the two sided fabrics that are different on each side).

2) Fold down the top to make a "pillow". Make sure the batting edge is folded under so it doesn't show.

3) Sew the two opposite sides together, with the outside of the fabric facing itself. Make sure you only sew approximately halfway up to allow for fold down opening (where we have a snap).

4) On the bottom you can sew it completely shut, or you can sew an inch on each side to leave an inch or so opening for the plug.

5) Fold down the flap and attach a snap using a snap tool.
